Movies play a powerful role in the lives of most students. Broadly, the goal of this class will be to examine the psychological impact of film as a medium (intrapersonal effect) and as a potent force of cultural exchange (interpersonal effect). Specifically, the class will survey how psychological concepts, theories, and practices are portrayed in contemporary cinema. Topics covered will include: the historical development of psychology; early clinical practice; the thwarting and healing nature of relationships; the complex challenge of interpreting human behavior; and the critical analysis of movie characters using psychological criteria. Ultimately students will be encouraged to monitor and examine their cathartic responses to a series of movies. This introspective contemplation will serve as the focus for greater self-awareness and as the basis for honing critical assessment skills. These skills will be further fostered through the reading of pertinent, scholarly articles (paired with the required films); and weekly classroom lectures and discussions. Students are required to attend class sessions; engage in weekly discussions referencing required readings and assigned films; and to make an individual presentation to the class on a topic they have discerned from the course materials.

SYLLABUS

Week One: Introductions. Discussion of the scope and methodology of the course. Student introductions and their hopes for what they want to get from the class. Dissemination of materials (written and lecture) pertinent to the second week's class.

Week Two: Psychology Before Psychology
The Dark Tower; Maleficent; Sleepy Hallow; Quills; The Madness of King George; A Monster Calls; The Ornithologist

Week Three: Differential Diagnosis
Arrival; The Danish Girl; A Single Man; Babadook; The Sixth Sense; The Rite; Hysteria; Blade Runner 2049

Week Four: Dysfunctional Environments
Get Out; Mad Max: Fury Road; Phoenix; Europa, Europa; Bernie; Precious: It; Birth of a Nation; Loving; Moonlight; Fences

Week Five: Therapeutic Relationships
Manchester by the Sea; Inside/Out; About Time, Silver Linings Play List; The Perks of Being a Wall Flower

Week Six: Personality Disorders
Whiplash; Black Mass; The Dark Knight; Lock, Stock, and Two Smoking Barrels; The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo; The Accountant

Week Seven: Biologically Based Disorders
Logan; Concussion; Still Alice; Mr. Holmes; Lucy; Alien: Covenant; War for the Planet of the Apes
Week Eight: Multicultural Perspectives
The Ornithologist; The Book of Life; Straight Outta Compton; What We Do in the Shadows; A Single Man; Moana; Tanna; Embrace of the Serpent

Week Nine: Healing Relationships
Room; Lars and the Real Girl; Big Fish; Little Miss Sunshine; Toni Erdmann; St Vincent

Week Ten: Final Student Presentations